

National Organizations:

National Association for Gifted Children (NAGC):

NAGC is a national organization concerned solely with the education of gifted students. Membership is not limited to gifted educators, but they make up the majority of the membership. NAGC has an annual conference. Membership in this association entitles you to the periodical The Gifted Child Quarterly as well as the NAGC newsletter.

For more information, click here: <http://www.nagc.org>

Council for Exceptional Children (CEC):

The Association for the Gifted (TAG) is one of many divisions of CEC. TAG is specifically for gifted program educators and administrators. You must join CEC before joining TAG. Membership in TAG entitles you to a regularly published journal from CEC and the TAG periodical Journal for Gifted Education. Members are informed of scheduled CEC conferences.

For more information on CEC, click here: <http://www.cec.sped.org/>

For more information on TAG, click here: <http://www.cectag.org>

State Organization:

Georgia Association for Gifted Children (GAGC):

GAGC is a state organization that promotes the educational needs of gifted students. Individual membership is $25.00. Membership in GAGC is included in a purchase of a membership of Gwinnett Alliance for Gifted Education at a reduced rate.

For more information, click here: <http://www.gagc.org/>

Local Organization:

Gwinnett Alliance for Gifted Education (GAGE):

GAGE is the local organization that promotes the educational needs of gifted students. Teachers and administrators receive a discounted rate for membership. Electronic copies of the membership form are shared with the local school gifted contact teacher at the beginning of each school year. These membership forms should be shared with the faculty/staff and the parents at the local school. Membership is for parents, educators/administrators and any community or family member that would like to support GAGE's efforts to provide the best possible educational environment for gifted students.

For more information, click here: <http://gwinnettgifted.org>